PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS CONVENE NOVEMBER 7 AND 8

The fifth annual convention of the teachers in the Oils Institute will be held in the Old School of Agriculture on Thursday and Friday, November 7 and 8. On Friday morning the teachers will be banqueted at the Victoria Hotel, following which the Rev. George Dickson of Calgary will give an address, the subject he has chosen being "The Unknown Teacher." Musical items will be rendered by local and visiting talent.

Local Movie Patrons To Hear Talkies Soon

The theatre manager, Mr. Sharp, is awaiting the arrival of the first movie-talking outfit. We are given to understand that it is the first portable one made, which Mr. Sharp can use to a big advantage in showing to the patrons different points of possible interest in talkie attractions.

TONIGHT . . .

Remember the public meeting to-night at the Hotel Alberta, under the auspices of the Didsbury U.F.A. Mr. Speakman, M.P., will address the meeting on the highlights of the last session. Everybody invited.

White Clothing Must Be Worn By Hunters

In view of the fact that the big game hunting season opens on November 1, the Alberta Provincial Police on Tuesday issued a reminder with regard to the wearing of white clothing. As which obliges all hunters to be clothed in white. It is the intention of the A.P.P. to see that this provision is strictly observed during the coming big game season.

The Dominion Department of National Health has issued a helpful little booklet entitled "Hunting Prevention and Care." The booklet which is free for the writing to the Dominion Bureau of Ottawa, is published under the direction of the Child Welfare Board.

U.F.A. Local Organized At Westerdale

Accompanied by Mr. Speakman, M.P., Red Ivor, Mr. Fred Pye, Federal U.F.A. organizer, of Redfern and Mr. W. A. Pye, Provincial U.F.A. president, Messrs. Walter Schulte and Dave Lown of the Didsbury local, journeyed to Westerdale Thursday evening to establish a structure similar to the existing branch of that farmer organization.

Mr. Hepburn spoke of the U.F.A. work while Mr. Pye dealt with matters of U.F.A. organization. Mr. Speakman gave a brief audience a necessary and important legislation at the federal house of commons.

The following effects were chosen:

Vice-Pres.: Mr. Jones,
Vice-Pres.: Mr. Jones,
Sec-Treas.: Walter Herbert.

A great deal of interest was evidenced at the meeting and the new local, it is anticipated, will be a live one.

BOLTON - SUMMERS
A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Tuesday evening in the Pro-Cathedral of the Redeemer at 7:30 o'clock, when Agnes Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Summers, of Didsbury, became the bride of Clark Fred Williams, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Williams, of Milverton, B.C. Very Rev. Dean R. H. Robinson was the officiating clergyman.

Mr. Williams, who was given permission by his father, presented a charming picture as she proceeded up the aisle to the soft strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played

What Is Education?

Educational policies and educational methods are today the subject of world-wide investigation, study and discussion, and, particularly so in all English-speaking countries. Perhaps in no previous period has the subject of education received more attention from the masses of the people. To a greater extent than ever before parents are showing a real interest and deep concern. They are in a questioning and questing mood, anxious to know whether accepted policies, systems and methods are productive of the best results.

It is also true that our schools and higher institutions of learning are costing more, and that the bills which have to be met by the taxpayers in order to provide and maintain their school systems are mounting year by year, and already constitute a large percentage of the annual tax levy. The vast majority of taxpayers do not object to this if, and this is the vital matter, they are obtaining decidedly better results in the education of the younger generation, and all that they have a right to expect from such increased expenditures.

The higher standard of living now so universal, as contrasted with thirty, forty, fifty years ago, has the effect of enabling parents to give their children high school and university training to an extent hitherto unknown. Tens of thousands of children now proceed to high school, colleges, and colleges who not so long ago would have completed their academic training when they finished with public school. And the demand is for still greater facilities for secondary education, especially for those resident in rural areas and the smaller hamlets and villages scattered all over the land.

The question arises in the minds of many: Are all these young people being truly educated? Are the thousands of young men and women annually gathering from our universities with the right to add B.A., M.A., and other letters after their names educated in the truest and highest acceptance of the word? Or are they merely equipped with certain tools which many of them do not know how to use for their own advancement and the welfare of the human family?

Dr. George A. Coe, veteran educationist of Northwestern University, and recently retired from Teachers College, is convinced that a good education is education for good living. "What an absurdity it would be to certify as well-educated a youth who has never been socially awakened, well-educated, yet negligible as far as social well-being and social progress are concerned." Dr. Coe presents "ten points" by which a truly educated man can be detected, which are worthy of consideration:

1. An educated man is one who is trained to use the tools of human intercourse with readiness, precision, and accuracy. We mean, especially, language and the rudiments of number.

2. An educated man must be able to study and to think without guidance from others. He must be—to some extent—a thinker, not a mere imitator.

3. An educated man must have sufficient knowledge of nature to understand the main processes upon which human life and happiness depend.

4. An educated man knows enough of history to enable him to understand the main achievements of man.

5. An educated man is acquainted with the major resources for intellectual and esthetic enjoyment. He knows nature, literature, music, and the other arts sufficiently to choose superior to inferior enjoyments.

6. An educated man is marked by his interests as well as by his trained abilities. His attention is habitually attracted by significant rather than trivial objects, events, pursuits, and enjoyments.

7. An educated man must have not only this general culture, but also training for a specific occupation. Focalized activity that is directed toward some sort of efficiency has to be included.

8. An educated man must have toward his fellows the habitual attitudes that are commonly called ethical—such attitudes as honor and honesty, helpfulness and good-will and co-operation.

9. An educated man must have loyalties to at least some of the important organizations and institutions of society, such as one's family, one's country, one's church.

10. If there is an inclusive meaning in life, the sort of education that I have been outlining should include some apprehension of, and feeling for, the divine; the ideally educated man will reverence God, and know how to worship.

WAS ALWAYS AILING NEVER FELT WELL

Health Restored Through the Use Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"I am one of the many who have found new health through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," says Mrs. Everitt Dowd, South Nelson, N.B. "For some years I never felt well, and at times was so weak that I would be confined to bed. At the very best I was in an ailing condition and found it difficult at all times to do my housework. I was subject to headaches, poor appetite, breathlessness at the least exertion, and very pale. Before Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me I had tried several medicines and felt that I would always be an invalid. A friend strongly urged me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and finally I consented to do so, but without much hope that they would help, where other medicines had failed. But in this, to my joy, I was mistaken. I had not been taking the pills very long when I knew they were helping me. As I continued their use I found my appetite improving, I slept better at night, and my strength was gradually returning. I continued taking the pills for several months, when I again found myself a well woman, and I believe that had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I would today be a helpless invalid. The pills have since been taken by others in our family, with the same beneficial results. I strongly urge every weak woman to try this grand health-building medicine."

If you will send your name and address to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., a little book, "Building Up the Blood," will be mailed you postpaid.

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Egg-Marketing Record

New records for the co-operative marketing of eggs in the western provinces have been established for the first eight months of 1929. To August 31, the Canadian Poultry Pool, Limited, the central selling agency for the western provinces, has handled more than 7,000,000 dozen eggs.

"THE most beautiful black you've ever seen!" "All my friends admire my new black silk!" "The coat I thought was hopelessly spoilt is now a new, beautiful black!" These are typical comments from women who have used these true, jet black dyes. Diamond Dyes Black never gives cloth a greenish or bronzy look, as so many black dyes do. Like Diamond Dyes Red and all the other Diamond colors, it is easy to use and gives such beautiful results because it is rich in pure anilines. It's the anilines in dyes that give them brilliance, depth and fastness; make them go on smoothly and evenly, without streaking or spotting. And Diamond Dyes contain the highest quality anilines that money can buy. The white package of Diamond Dyes is the highest quality dye, prepared for general use. It will dye or tint silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon, or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye, for silk and wool only. With it you can dye your valuable articles of silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk and wool. Your dealer has both packages.

Diamond Dyes contain the highest quality anilines money can buy. And it is the anilines that count. They are the life of dyes; the source of their rich colors; brilliance and permanence.

Real English Pantomime

Colossal British Production, "Humpty Dumpty," Coming Soon

Old Country folk who have long craved to see a real English pantomime, and Canadians who have heard so much of these sumptuous musical entertainments from friends will welcome the news that at last a British producer, Mr. Philip Rodway, has had the courage to send us one of these colossal productions in "Humpty Dumpty," which will be seen at the Grand Theatre, Regina, for three nights and Wednesday matinee, commencing October 21st.

When "Humpty Dumpty" was presented in Toronto, it was an instantaneous hit which is proven by the following from the Toronto Daily Telegram.

"This season's triumphant march of the British theatre into the hearts of Canadians made notable progress last night when a large audience at the Princess Theatre acclaimed Philip Rodway's presentation of the Birmingham Pantomime Company in the musical pantomime extravaganza, "Humpty Dumpty." A story drawn from fairyland it is, but one that appeals to young and old—a message of good cheer and optimism, with new faces and new songs, diverting, wholesome, fascinating.

"Wee Georgie Wood, of course, is the outstanding star. The diminutive player is a gifted actor exuding personal magnetism, with that rare ability to change a crowded scene from merriment to pathos merely by altering the expression of his face or the tone of his voice. He can build up mass interest in some conceit or other till it soars high, and then crash it down in a heap with a lightning-like flash of irresistible wit. His smile is impish in its compelling good humor. Then, in an instant, he adopts a mask of sadness, and the composite face of all the little boys ever lost in snowstorms tears at the heart-strings of the audience. His part is that of "Humpty Dumpty," a nondescript lad out of a broken egg.

Few who see it will forget his classic imitation of a boy in the process of being washed at bedtime by his mother. Later as a Scotch laddie with a dog, his antics are inimitable and his Highland accent, by the way, worthy of Lauder himself. Furthermore, Al. Johnson never knew as well as "Wee Georgie" how to talk to an audience in intimate fashion.

It is some feat to get a Toronto theatre singing unaccompanied songs. "Wee Georgie" did it last night at the Princess."

To Exchange Ambassadors

Great Britain Has Entered Into Agreement With Russia

Great Britain and Russia have agreed to an exchange of ambassadors, thus paving the way for full resumption of trade and commercial relations between the two countries. The agreement, which is subject to parliamentary approval in England, was reached in a secret meeting at Lewes, England, between Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary of Great Britain, and Russian ambassador, Valerian Dovalevsky, who came from his Paris post.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sour, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisacurated Magnesia and take a little in water just after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisacurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk), is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Good Agricultural Land To Be Found In H. B. Ry. Area Says Report Of Federal Expert

That the clay belt of Ontario, now one of the new areas attracting thousands of settlers, extends into northern Manitoba, and there is a very large territory of good agricultural land contiguous to the Hudson Bay Railway, are the outstanding features of a report made to the Federal Department of Agriculture by an expert agriculturist, who made an inspection of this section of Manitoba last summer.

The expert, whose name is withheld, but who is an officer in the experimental farms branch of the department, began his survey of the northern territory at Hudson Bay Junction and proceeded as far north along the Hudson Bay road as the contractors would allow him to go. He reports that between the Junction and The Pas, the terrain is very wooded and there is no settlement. Neither is there any settlement immediately past the Pas. For the first 42 miles the heavy timber continues with many outcroppings of rocks. He reports large deposits of first class marble in this area. At mile 42, Cormorant, the gardens are numerous and trial plots of wheat, oats and barley were all ripe on August 25 when he inspected them. The stand was excellent and the yields very good. The wheat samples included Garnet, Reward, Ceres, Marquis, and Minden. The stands were from 40 to 48 inches in height. The oat samples were Alaska, Gopher, Banner and Victory. The last two were a poor crop, indicating that these varieties may mature too late to be of utility in the north. The others were a bumper crop and the barley, Trebi and O.A.C. 21, were splendid.

From Cormorant to Mile 137, there is much wooded country and the open spaces are rocky and heavily mineralized. At Mile 137, however, the clay belt begins. Homesteads are being developed. One homesteader, Hugh Gray, has a farm of 160 acres. Seven acres were planted last spring in garden produce, chiefly potatoes. An additional 20 acres were cleared and are ready for breaking and forty more will be cleared this winter. The oats on the Gray homestead did very well, and the Irish Cobbler potatoes were the best the investigator had seen anywhere in Manitoba this year. They were absolutely free from all disease. Head cabbage, onions, carrots, beets and other garden produce were extremely good and the corn was passable, despite the fact that it suffered from drought.

The clay soil continues to Mile 185, where a resident, named George Cowan, has an excellent flower and vegetable garden. The blooms, the expert reports, were "gorgeous." An extraordinary feature of the development here were fruit trees which appeared to be flourishing. The crab apple and plum trees looked excellent. A good crop of raspberries was being harvested.

The potato yield was splendid and all vegetables appeared to be flourishing, particularly cucumbers. The grain tests made at Mile 185 turned out very successfully. Garnet, Reward and Ceres wheats matured excellently; the oats were good and the barley better.

At Mile 214, there are two homesteads and first breaking was done this year. It will not be possible to reach conclusions as to the fertility of this soil until next year. Garden plots, however, were very good.

There was a bumper crop of vegetables at Mile 237. The production included lettuce, onions, peas, beets and potatoes.

At Mile 327, the vegetables were excellent, with the exception of cucumbers, which were touched by frost. At this point the expert noticed that the trees were smaller and thinning out while the muskeg was becoming deeper. Rich grasses abounded and indicated a good growing soil. No attempt at general farming has been made either here or further north along the line. The expert was stopped at Mile 445, Deer River, and then turned back.

Summarizing the situation, the report states: "From Mile 137 to 327, the line passes through the clay belt and there is much good soil not hampered by rock, that, once drained from muskeg, will make good agricultural territory. Most of the mining people think a person is insane who appears in the north country to seek agricultural possibilities. Notwithstanding this lack of faith, I am convinced that when the time comes when this territory is needed for settlement, the possibilities are there."

It is added that there is a great opening for dairy farming in this area and that cows are badly needed by those who are beginning to farm.

"Mountie" Likes Arctic

Sergeant Anderton, Home On Furlough, Says It Is the Only Life

Sgt. F. Anderton, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, is spending his first furlough out of the Arctic in nine years. He arrived at Vancouver on the police schooner St. Roch, which has been following the line of her duty from Herschel Island east to Cambridge Bay for the past fifteen months.

Sgt. Anderton has spent altogether 17 years in the Arctic service. He said he would go back. "It's the only life," he declared. "It gives you plenty of freedom, lots of amusement and a good outdoor existence."

The sergeant's duties take him across the unpopulated wastes of Canada's northern territories under all circumstances of weather and time, acting in every capacity for the laws of the Dominion.

The St. Roch is a two-masted auxiliary schooner, 90 feet long, built for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Arctic Service.

Grain For the Orient

Bulk Of Peace River Exportable Surplus Going To East

Preliminary estimates place the 1929 exportable surplus of the Peace River wheat crop at 16,000,000 bushels, and it is believed that a large percentage of this will be shipped to Oriental markets via Pacific Coast ports. Naoki Iwasaki, representative of a Japanese flour mill company, recently visited the Peace River country and it is intimated that his company will make large purchases from several companies operating elevators in the northern district. Mr. Iwasaki's company purchases annually about 15,000,000 bushels of wheat and operates 12 mills in Japan.

The imprint in stone of an enormous human foot, indicating a type of prehistoric man of which no trace has hitherto been found, was claimed to have been discovered near the Limpopo River, by an Italian scientific expedition. Beside indications that the man must have been of huge stature, indications were present of several ape-like characteristics.

Spread Of English Language Since Close Of Great War Presents Interesting Phenomenon

One of the most arresting phenomena of these times is the spread of the English language, particularly since the great war. At present English is the current tongue of some two hundred millions of people. With the rapid expansion of the United States, as well as that of our own Dominions and Dependencies, its overwhelming domination seems assured within a few decades."

In Northern, Central and South-Eastern Europe parents are clamoring to have their children taught English, often with an eye to future emigration. The same may be said of Japan. In India with its scores of dialects, English is becoming a means of communication between widely diverse races, and the culture of young China is being drawn largely from American sources, with the English language as the medium.

In view, therefore, of its grandiose future, is it not time for something to be done to stabilize its development? At the moment, English is being developed from two distinct sources—the one in the birthplace of the language, the other in the Western Hemisphere, where it is the unifying factor in a nation composed of a score of nationalities. Now it is inevitable that in course of time the English of Great Britain, and that of America shall diverge. The very individual of each of these two great nations alone ensures this.

Again, the factors of racial origin, climatic conditions and general environment will have their effect in producing independent lingual idiosyncrasies in America and here, though, as the result of closer contacts, due to improved means of communication these influences will be modified.

Little harm, however, will result from these minor divergencies. The culture of the British Isles has not suffered greatly from the fact that the Wigan collier and the Sussex herdsman would find some difficulty in exchanging their views of life.

What would prove disastrous would be any important divergence in the written language, the language of culture. So far the divergencies are scarcely worth attention. Read an article in any of the leading American reviews and you will see little difference in the phraseology from that to be found in an equivalent article in one of our own reviews. And in the regions of science, belles-lettres, and philosophy it needs an expert to decide from the language in which a book is written whether the author dwells by the banks of the Thames or the Hudson.

Yet there is a distinction. Here and there one may note innovations and mutations in the writings of American authors that reveal a development in which we are not taking part.

Such things as "aluminum" for "aluminium," the pronunciation of "schedule" as "skedule"—etymologically correct—the use of "so" instead of "so that," the rapid supersession of "shall" by "will" in all circumstances, and the greater tendency to incorporate slangish phrases are but a few of the American practices that serve to irritate the purist on this side.

Yet languages are a living growth. They move with the age. English can be no exception. Therefore, as nobody desires that there shall be two more or less distinct languages a few hundred years hence, Britain and America ought to join forces to avert this menace it is contended.

It is suggesting that a body bearing such name as "The English-Speaking Academy" should be created. It might very well consist of a committee of cultured men from British and American universities, with a sprinkling of well-known authors.

This committee would hold conferences at intervals and come to an agreement about what should be considered good English and issue authoritative instructions for the guidance of teachers and the authors of grammars.

In this way inevitable changes in the languages could be regulated and there would be established a certain standard English to which, in matters of culture, the whole English-speaking world would conform. —A. P. Garland in London Daily Express

Good Wheat Yield

From a 17 acre field at Coaldale, Frank Knapp harvested Marquis wheat which yielded 52 bushels to the acre. The field was sown in the last week of April with registered seed of the second generation. The straw grew about five feet high and was remarkably even.

"Father," said the little boy at the seaside, "do donkeys have wives?" "Yes, my boy," replied father, "and only donkeys."

"OBSERVE SUNDAY"

On all letters passing through Canada's mails during October and November, the cancellation stamp carries the words "Observe Sunday." This is a compliment from the Post Office Department to the Lord's Day Alliance, which has been a most valuable factor in supporting the Lord's Day Act of the Dominion Parliament, and which is celebrating its fortieth anniversary this year by aiming to raise a fund of $40,000 for its work.

The fundamental reason for Sunday observance is Rest—one day's rest is seven at least. There are a multitude of differing views as to Sabbath observance, but the purport of the Canadian civil legislation is to prevent Sunday being used for mercantile purposes, being used for the making of mercenary gain. That is a basis on which the vast majority of us can unite in the observance of Sunday. It is a most valuable factor in the national life, and gives Canada a brighter and happier Sunday than non-observing countries or communities enjoy.

WHERE TO BUY

One of those myths which begin nobody knows where and are without rhyme or reason, is to the effect that one can buy cheaper out of town. The specious slogan "buy out-of-town and save money" profits no one but the mail order house and the city concern seeking business from smaller communities within shopping distance.

Quality being equal, the home-town merchant can give his customers better values than his out-of-town competitors, and, what is equally important, can give each customer the personal service that counts so much in modern business relations. The best guarantee of quality is not the biggest store and the largest volume of business. In the small city and town where trade is limited, the goodwill of each customer is jealously cultivated. There the merchant cannot afford to risk the loss of a patron by unfair business practices.

With the large city institution or the mail order house it is a different story. Every day they attract and lose thousands of customers. They are doing business on such a large scale that immediate profit is more essential than satisfying every customer. They know that by extensive advertising they can get two customers for every one they lose without exhausting the field of new business.

When delivery charges or carfare are taken into account, one saves by buying at home for a few cents more than the catalogue price of mail order goods or the "sale" price of big city merchandise. Moreover, a considerable saving would not compensate one for the worry, delay and disappointment that are synonymous with mail order buying.

There is also an unselfish, community side of buying at home. Communities are only as prosperous as their business establishments. They are an accurate barometer of community loyalty and progressiveness.
It has been truthfully said "buying at home makes the home-town grow."

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE SAYING*THE NATIONAL FLAG

Speaking at the High River Board of Trade luncheon last week, Mr. Hugh Savage, of Duncan, B.C., president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers
Association, spoke on the need of a Canadian flag, concerning which Mr.
Savage wrote an article in Maclean's Magazine. Canada was the only dominion, without a proper flag, he said, and 't was full time a distinctly Canadian emblem should be provided for Dominion Day and other national holidays. When Percy Williams won high honor for his country by his running in the Olympic games, a Canadian shipping flag had to be hoisted, as there was no Canadian official flag.

The French-Canadians, on gala days, used the tricolor.

Officially, the Union Jack is the only national flag which Canada possesses but that is the flag of the mother country, or of the Empire. The Canadian Red Ensign, which shows the Canadian arms on the fly, is intended for ships of Canadian registry, and it is properly flown only on water and on Canadian government buildings outside Canada. The Blue Ensign is flew by government vessels.

Mr. Savage urged that the matter should be dealt with free from any party or racial spirit. The suggestion has been made that the red ensign with a green maple leaf on the fly, might be used, but the maple leaf is not known in Western Canada of any account. The selection of a Canadian flag should be investigated from the ground up, and a simple, distinctive, representative, national flag authorized.—Red Deer Advocate.

ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice Day will soon be upon us, which is a day imprinted in the minds of all of us, not as being one of NATIONAL importance but of WORLD-WIDE importance. The extent to which this day when it occurred was lauded by people of every nationality cannot be measured, and the relief to the pent up suffering of relatives anxiously concerned about the welfare of their own will never be forgotten.

We owe to Canada's 60,000 men who gave their lives a solemn tribute as Canadians and we should all bring this to attention once per year. November 11th is the day for this observance when the young nation of Canada will display its remembrance by wearing the poppy.

Every Canadian or citizen in this glorious land of ours is asked to wear a poppy which is emblematic of this tribute.

The Canadian government is employing our disabled men to make these poppies in order to provide a means of employment for them, and the time they spend occupies their attention and helps relieve their suffering for a little while. Each poppy bears the Veteran stamp.

The Legion throughout Canada under the leadership of General Sir Arthur Currie, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., is appealing to all citizens to remember the day.

Is there a citizen who will refrain from paying this respect to our dead soldiers? Her Excellency Lady Willingdon is Patroness in Chief for all Canada. Other countries are observing this day in this manner—let Canadians be Canadians by showing they will not take second place to any country in the world in this observance.

The Singing Fool

By HUBERT DAIL

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, wins fame as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Winton, a ballad singer, and makes her famous, too. Molly and Al have a baby, Junior, whom Al adores. Molly becomes interested in John Perry, Al's close friend, and one night she tells Al she has ceased to love him. Al refuses to believe it, but when Molly fails to show up for a New Year's Eve celebration at the Club Bombo, where Al is part owner, he rushes home to find she has packed up and left, taking Junior. She leaves a note suggesting that she loves John Perry and that Al need not try to persuade her to come back.

CHAPTER XVII.

"This is Mr. Stone. Is the car in?"

"No, Mr. Stone," came the answer. "Mrs. Stone took it out."

"When?"

"Tonight, about an hour ago. She said she might not be back for several days."

"Was my baby with her?"

"Yes, sir, and a gentleman."

"I see. Thank you."

Al had struggled hard to keep his voice calm. He didn't want to ask too many questions; that would excite the suspicion of the garage people and Molly's flight might get into the newspapers.

He walked to the nursery window; down below he could see the crowds in black masses still moving slowly up and down the sidewalks, welcoming the glad new year. He shook his head—no, there wasn't a chance of finding Molly tonight. He couldn't call the police because there was no definite charge he could make against her. Besides, it wouldn't be the thing to do; it would mean publicity and ghastly scandal that would involve his baby. Al thought his rage had passed now and that he was thinking clearly. He went to the doorway and heard the maid putting about in her little back room.

"Celeste?"

"Yes, sir."

"If you haven't gone to bed will you step here a moment?"

"What time did Mrs. Stone leave?"

"A little over an hour ago."

"Ah. She and Junior were alone?"

"Yes, sir."

So—John Perry had waited for her outside, thought Al.

"She didn't say how long she would be gone?"

"She just said she would be gone a long time and that everything was explained in the letter to you."

Al saw from the girl's expression that she had some idea of the purpose of Molly's hasty flight.

"Celeste, I want to ask you something. Please don't say anything to anyone about Mrs. Stone's departure."

"Yes, sir, I understand. I—I feel very sorry."

"Don't worry. And Celeste—I'll remain at the apartment for a time, at any rate. You needn't worry about your position."

"Yes, sir, thank you. Goodnight, sir."

When the maid disappeared Al entered Molly's room. He had believed himself calm when he talked to Celeste, but now he realized that he had been merely numbed by the sense of his tragedy. He was trying to plan, trying to read the future, while at the same time searing thoughts were burning him up. At one moment he raged inwardly against the heartless cruelty and contemptible deception of Molly and Perry, but the next instant he was on the verge of tears at the thought of losing Junior.

Where was he? Oh, yes, in Molly's room—the light aroma of her perfume filled the air. There was her sumptuous bed, with the high posts and costly coverlet of lace over pink satin. Here was her dressing table, with empty cosmetic jars and bottles strewn about. The drawers of the dresser were pulled out here, too, showing the same evidence of hurried packing as the nursery.

He quickly staggered out and sought the nursery again. Without thinking, he picked up Junior's woolly dog, holding it in his hand as he paced up and down. What would Molly be likely to do in her flight? Where would she be likely to go? These were hopeless questions and Al knew it. She would very likely place herself in John Perry's hands and Al could not read that inscrutable mind.

Then he became aware that he was clutching at Junior's toy dog, like the proverbial drowning man grasping at the straw. It was his one link with his curly-haired boy; wherever Junior was he would sooner or later be calling for his favorite toy. He might be crying for it at this moment.

The thought brought Al to a standstill; he sank into the nearest chair and looked around. If Molly's room spoke eloquently of her recent presence this nursery was fairly alive with the feeling of Junior. The fairytale pictures on the wall and the tiny bright blue chairs brought up pictures, adorable memories of Al's little loved one, who had made these walls ring with his chatter and laughter. Suddenly Al turned the face of the woolly dog toward him and its shoe-button eyes stared down at him as if eternally questioning—Where was his little master? Al slumped down in his chair, breaking under the strain, his shoulders twitching convulsively as he sobbed.

But this lasted only a moment; he quickly pulled himself together and stood up. He had told Celeste he would stay on in the apartment, but he could not bear to face this empty room day after day? Yes, he must, on the slim chance that something might lead to his finding Junior, something might bring Junior back. Now he did not think of Molly, but only of Junior. He quickly walked to the hallway for his hat, overcoat and stick.

"Celeste," he called, "I'm going out. Don't be worried if I don't come back tonight."

Al was walking along the street, where the crowds had thinned out, for it was well on toward morning. Occasionally he met a band of drunken revellers, but he stalked by them with unseeing eyes, going nowhere in particular, but feeling the necessity for walking, walking.

All the time his mind worked furiously. Had Molly given up her stage job with The Merry-Go-Rounders; had she quit the show flat? He must see Marcus in the morning and find out. Marcus might have some idea of her whereabouts.

Now Al saw the dark expense of Central Park before him and, without thinking he turned in the first entrance he reached. There were the low, snow-covered hills, the bare trees whispering gently in the winter wind, the reflections of the skyscraper lights in the cold water. Here was the Japanese bridge where he had taken Junior walking only last Sunday. He stopped as if waiting for someone or something.

At that moment a dark limousine came speeding past him on the driveway. Was it Molly's car? He sprang forward.

Quickly as Al moved, the limousine was faster. It looked like a Rolls, but he couldn't be sure. And it was too dark for him to read the license plate. He stopped; there were ten thousand cars in New York that resembled Molly's. He went on, walking the streets until daylight. Then he headed for home, threw himself on his bed, fully clothed, and fell into a sleep that was tortured by nightmares.

He awoke with the sun streaming through his windows, tossed off his clothes, bathed, shaved and dressed hastily for the street. The first man to see was Marcus.

Marcus was in his office. He looked up in genuine surprise when Al walked in, pale and haggard.

"What's the matter, Al?"

"Nothing much. Has Molly quit your show?"

"Yes, didn't you know?" A shadow crossed Marcus' face. "She quit last night, just like that." Marcus snapped his fingers. "With no explanation except that she was tired and needed a rest. The press department got busy on it. Didn't you see the morning paper?"

A Speedy Traveller

Rabbit Can Keep Ahead Of Ford Motor Car

The driver of a motor-car in Switzerland, tells the story of the astonishing speed and long-sustained effort which a rabbit is capable of. He happened to start one, which on its flight kept to the road. In order to keep up with the rabbit, the man had to speed up to about 34 miles an hour, and the sturdy little creature held out for over a league before it finally jumped into ditch by the roadside.

Radio Sets Installed

Prisoners At Sing Sing Prison Can Listen In

In each of the 1,800 cells of the new extension at Sing Sing Prison is a radio receiving set, after the manner of the ultra-modern metropolitan hotels. The installations have even made, it was officially confirmed today, following reports by prison employees, and in the future convicts with terms of from two years to life may listen to concerts, to news of the outside world, sermons and bedtime stories.

The guests of the state of New York may listen in, but they may not tune in. They must listen to what comes over the air from the central receiving station in the prison auditorium, whether the program be to their taste or not. The privilege was extended after the new rules, curtailing motion picture theatre visits from seven nights a week to two, went into effect.

The Mutual Welfare League bears the expense of installing and maintaining the radio equipment.

Ontario's Flying Firemen Not Confined To Patrol Work

In addition to organized forces of land patrols, the Ontario Government is trying to safeguard the valuable forest reserves from fire by patrols from the air. Up to the end of August, air patrols employed by the provincial government had flown 9,000 hours or 3,300 hours more than the total flying time on a similar service last year. Not only do these flying firemen do patrol work, but when a fire is detected they land at a fire protective service station, load men and fire fighting material, and take them as near as possible to the scene of the fire.

Little Helps For This Week

"Make sure thy friend."—Proverbs vi. 3.

Believe me better than my best, And stronger than my strength can hold,

Until your royal faith transmutes My pebbles into gold.

—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.

To win and hold a friend, we are compelled to keep ourselves at his ideal point, and in turn our love makes on him the same appeal. All around the circle of our best beloved, it is this idealizing that gives to love its beauty, and its pain, and its mighty leverage on character,—its beauty, because that idealizing is the secret of love's glow; its pain, because that idealizing makes the constant peril of its vanishing; its leverage to uplift character, because this same idealizing is a constant challenge between every two, compelling each to be his best. "What is the secret of your life?" asked Mrs. Browning of Charles Kingsley; "Tell me, that I may make mine beautiful too." He replied, "I have a friend."

—William Channing Gannett.

Reduce the Acid

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggist.

When Caesar was a boy

THE Forum was the common market-place for all of ancient Rome. Today a few crumbling columns stand as mute reminders of its former grandeur.

In our present day complex civilization, market places have become scattered. It is no longer possible to visit them all in a morning—or even in a day.

Advertising, instead, has become the convenient Forum of modern buyers and sellers. If you are considering the purchase of a new car, you scrutinize the automobile advertising. Or if it's a razor or a talking machine that you want, you turn again to the advertising. Here is the national market-place for merchandise.

Furthermore, as you leaf over those same pages of products, your mind is storing away for tomorrow a compact and valuable fund of information. Instinctively, you will remember those facts when you make your future purchases. Increase your store of knowledge by reading the advertisements regularly.

Visiting Minister Tells Of Lutheran Meet

A report of extreme interest to local Lutherans was given at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Westcott, on Thursday evening when Rev. K. Wentzel of Craigmyle reported on the proceedings of the Synodical convention held at River Forest, Ill., June 19-29.

More than 800 delegates attended the convention, the visiting pastor in his opening remarks declared, of which not a few were from foreign lands. All business was dealt with under the able leadership of Dr. F. Pfotenhauer of Chicago, who had been elected to the presidency for the seventh consecutive term. The outstanding feature of the convention, so the report read, was the mission program adopted for the next triennium. Of a budget reaching almost nine millions, approximately three quarter million was to be devoted to missions. Only the necessary grants had been made for the sustenance and the expansion of the seventeen institutions of Synod. The speaker then enumerated the many missions that were to receive support, in each instance citing the amount that had been granted.

Rev. Wentzel also spoke of the Quadrbicentennial celebration of Dr. Luther's catechism held at Soldiers' Field, Chicago, on convention Sunday. Sixty thousand Lutherans attended the service, which had been beautified by a mixed and a children's choir jointly consisting of seven thousand voices.

The report was repeated at the St. John's Lutheran Church, Didsbury, in the evening.

Bows of white tulle and orange blossoms marked the guest pews. The ushers were W. J. Fisher and William Summers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. T. Bradshaw, 821-22 Avenue southeast, when those receiving with the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. George Summers, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bradshaw and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Bowen.

Pink and white streamers formed an effective decoration for the artistically appointed bride's table centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, surrounded by tall roses and tall pink cathedral tapers.

The bride and bridegroom will spend a few days in Calgary before proceeding to Didsbury where they will reside on the bridegroom's farm.

The Didsbury guests present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. Boorman, Mr. and Mrs. H. Farrant, Miss Monica Farrant, Harry

WIEBE—WIENS

One of the most interesting weddings of the season was solemnized in the Ev. Church last Friday, October 25 at 3 p.m., when Mr. John J. Wiebe and Miss Mary A. Wiens, employees on the Burns ranch north east of town, were united in the bonds of holy wedlock by Rev. H. E. Roppel.

The appointment was first made for a parlor wedding in the Ev. parsonage, but on arrival of the guests, numbering about 35, the entire group was ushered over to church.

The bridal pair as well as most of the guests being natives of Russia, with little understanding of the English language as yet, it became necessary for the minister to officiate either in the Russian or German language. The latter was chosen.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiebe expect to take up residence here in Didsbury for the winter. Congratulations and best wishes for a long, happy and prosperous wedded life are extended to them.

Every time one man puts a new idea across he finds ten men who have thought of it before he did. But they only thought.
